This course comprises lectures, demonstrations and hands-on components.

The outcome of endodontic treatment is quite predictable if recommended treatment procedures and protocols are followed. However, clinical endodontic procedures can be technically difficult. Typical complications are related to diagnosing the problem, case selection, temporization, access and initial negotiation of the canals rather than to any other factors. This course will reveal an experienced endodontist's "trade secrets" that will simplify the treatment process. Participants will then be able to practice these techniques by doing the hands-on practical exercises on extracted teeth. The main objective of this course is to prepare general practitioners for an immediate improvement in their ability to perform predictable endodontic treatment.

About the Presenter:

Professor Paul Abbott is the Winthrop Professor of Clinical Dentistry at The University of Western Australia. He is a Specialist Endodontist and works in private practice on a part-time basis. Prior to taking a full-time University position in 2002, he spent 17 years in private specialist practice in Perth and Melbourne. He was Head of the UWA School of Dentistry and Director of the Oral Health Centre of WA from 2003-2009. He has lectured extensively in 42 countries, has published 148 articles in refereed journals and 23 textbook chapters. He is the Editor-in-Chief of the journal Dental Traumatology and he has served on Editorial Boards and Scientific Review Panels of 17 international journals. In 2004 he was awarded the University of Western Australia's Excellence in Teaching Award for Individual Teaching, and in 2015 the University awarded him the Excellence in Teaching Award for Postgraduate Coursework Teaching. He has also been awarded by the UWA Student Guild for his teaching and recently received a Commendation for Lifetime Achievement from the The WA Clinical Training Network Team. In June 2015 he was appointed as an Officer of the Order of Australia in recognition of his services to clinical dentistry, teaching, research and professional societies.
