CPD HOURS: 4

More and more we are confronted with patients who have multiple medical complaints and are taking a huge array of medications. It is necessary to fully elucidate them clinically and then consider the best strategies for their management. To begin with, it is important to engage the patient in a careful interview, taking a good medical history. Time spent taking a medical history will help you understand your patient and their problems. This lecture covers medical issues that are important for the dentist to understand.

Topics to be covered will include:

- Systemic diseases which impact Dentistry.
- Infection and the mouth.
- Peri-operative medicine.
- Pharmacology in Dentistry.
- Psychosocial medicine.
- The Dentist: What could disable or kill me before I retire at 55?

About the Presenter:

Dr Simon Dimmit is currently a Clinical Professor of Medicine at UWA, a visiting consultant physician in general and cardiovascular medicine at a number of hospitals and clinics, chairs of Human Research Ethics and Drug & Therapeutics Committees at St John of God Health Care in Subiaco, a senior national examiner for the Royal Australasian College of Physicians and Medical Director of Australian Community & Health Foundation. His research has included looking at the effects of lifestyle and pharmacotherapy on blood pressure, lipids, diabetes and cardiovascular risk, prescribing precision and safety and the neuropharmacology of obesity & hypertension. He has co-authored over 70 published papers and written four books including 'Medicine for Dentists'.
