CPD HOURS: 6.5

A policy and procedure development format for the whole dental team. This lecture will review the necessary fundamentals for appropriate and effective Infection Prevention and Control strategy and the required practical implementations for your practice.

Modules will include:

- Quality Assurance Management – Quality Assurance Checklist/Audit Tool and Report.
- Procedures and Work Instructions - Policy & Procedure manuals made easy.
- Quality Records – required and appropriate documentation.
- 'Use it, Clean it, Sterilise it' ... instrument reprocessing, it's that easy!

An overview of instrument reprocessing management – take this opportunity to ensure you meet current compliance recommendations and requirements.

Overall responsibility for infection prevention and control belongs to all team members; as such many of the associated duties may be delegated, however the accountability cannot and belongs to the clinician directly. It is important therefore that every member of the team including Dentists, Therapists/Hygienists and all Dental Auxiliary staff have a clear understanding of their individual and collective responsibilities. Every team member should be able to contribute positively to an effective and efficient infection prevention and control strategy and implement the necessary protocols to support it.

Meg will outline and review a '90 Minute Checklist for Infection Prevention and Control' compliance.

Check that your validation process (ensure things work as they should) is current and that you have appropriate documentation of the process, correct classification and management of instruments, preparation for sterilisation, packaging, handling and storage etc.

Some things have changed over the years, but in many ways for the better – it is important that we get 'back to the basics' with infection prevention and control and the reprocessing of instruments. There is not a requirement for many complex products, but a rationalised range of good efficient products that do what we think they are doing and fit into the clinical applications for dentistry – which we all know is very, very time focused!

About the Presenter:

Meg Sharpe has presented throughout Australia, New Zealand and Pacific Islands and delivers a comprehensive and informative presentation of theory suitable for practical application to everyday clinical practice in the dental setting. She has a clinical background and a passion for dentistry, specifically in the areas of Practice Management, Infection Prevention and Sterilisation, Ergonomics and Occupational Hygiene.

This course is for the whole dental team.
